

Professor of Education
1/19/17
Shanghai Alleyways

As the name suggest, Diverse Learners could mean you are thinking of the many ways various groups of people gain knowledge.

Studying these photographs, you will be taking on the personality of a specific age and answering the questions below.

YOU ARE: 6th Grader

- 1- Choose an artwork that you think is the most exciting for your age. Which one is it, and why did you choose this one?

- 2- If you could talk to someone in the photograph, who would you talk to, what would you say and how do you think they would respond?

- 3- What in the photograph resonates with you in your life/school?

- 4- Combining the two above, what do you think you could glean from this artwork? Is it just aesthetic pleasure, an appreciation for something, a humility, an inspiration?

- 5- As an educator, how would you approach talking to someone (of the above age) about this photograph?

As the name suggest, Diverse Learners could mean you are thinking of the many ways various groups of people gain knowledge.

Studying these photographs, you will be taking on the personality of a specific age and answering the questions below.

YOU ARE: Senior in College

4- Choose an artwork that you think is the most exciting for your age. Which one is it, and why did you choose this one?

5- If you could talk to someone in the photograph, who would you talk to, what would you say and how do you think they would respond?

6- What in the photograph resonates with you in your life/school?

4- Combining the two above, what do you think you could glean from this artwork? Is it just aesthetic pleasure, an appreciation for something, a humility, an inspiration?

5- As an educator, how would you approach talking to someone (of the above age) about this photograph?